Social Responsibility

One of the first Brazilian companies to adopt the Sustainable Development Policy, Klabin has always encouraged socially responsible practices throughout its units. From support to volunteer participation to donations, the company's social actions are carried out in different social areas: health, social assistance, arts and culture, and technical and environmental education.

In order to accomplish with its collaboration and friendly relation policies toward the communities it operates, Klabin has taken part in a wide range of supportive actions together with renowned social assistance agencies such as Apae, Pastoral da Criança, Fundação Abrinq pelos Direitos da Criança, and municipalities.

However, Klabin reaches farther than that: it provides the means for the educational development at several levels. Among other initiatives, it has carried out programs for ecological awareness aimed at teachers and students as well as the reopening of the workshop schools.

Klabin's responsible decisions and purposeful actions toward the environmental preservation are witnessed in its industrial and forestal practices introduced since its foundation. They comply with the performance standards oriented to sustainable development which assures the preservation of 136 thousand hectares of native forests where 320 bird species and 11 endangered mammal species are sheltered. These and many other practices have made Klabin one of the Brazilian leading companies devoted to developing the social responsibility awareness in Brazil.
