

Stockholm 13th of October 2010

COP, Communication on Progress for Raw Materials Group RMG AB status and progress on the 10 principals of Global Compact.

Our Commitment

Raw Materials Group joined the UN Global Compact in 2008 and we are committed to its ten Principles on human rights, labour rights, environment and anti-corruption. This is reflected in our overall dedication to sustainable development. As a supporter of the Global Compact Raw Materials Group submits annually a Communication on Progress (COP) that describes our company's efforts to implement the ten principles. We support public accountability and transparency, and are committed to report on progress every year according to the Global Compact COP policy.

Sincerely yours,

Dr. Per Storm

In this COP, Communication on Progress Raw Materials Group RMG AB has listed the ten principals, each principle followed with examples of policies and actions we have taken in order to fulfill the commitment towards Global Compact. Raw Materials Group strives to achieve openness, multitude and respect for differences. We support public accountability and transparency, and are committed to report on progress every year according to the Global Compact COP policy.

Human Rights

Principle 1: Raw Materials Group support and respect the protection of internationally proclaimed human rights in all our business and projects.

We assist governments with exploration and mining investment promotions, as well as policy studies. Raw Materials Group has launched the project Mining for Development (M4D). The Mining for Development (M4D) initiative is a joint Nordic project. It is a major, long term project to focus on exploration and mining as levers for social and economic development in developing countries. A project to cooperate and coordinate with existing scattered initiatives around the world. A project to unite all resources related to mining, whether private sector, government or academia in Sweden, the Nordic countries and within the EU.

Developments in recent years have proven that minerals and metals are indispensable in any social and economic development scenario. Experiences from both industrialised and developing countries further demonstrate that environmental threats and socio-economic problems stemming from mining can be avoided provided these problems are giving the attention they deserve. Some developing countries have shown that mining can make a decisive contribution to development, both by increasing financial resources available to governments for social development and through strengthening of linkages with other sectors of the economy.

Principle 2: Raw Materials Group make sure that they are not complicit in human rights abuses. For example Raw Materials Group writes reports for the UN and World Bank and Raw Materials Group are a member of international team of reference for the new South African minerals bill.

Labour

Principle 3: Raw Materials Group uphold the freedom of association and the effective recognition of the right to collective bargaining; Principle 4: the elimination of all forms of forced and compulsory labour; Principle 5: the effective abolition of child labour; and Principle 6: the elimination of discrimination in respect of employment and occupation.
