Part II. Description of Actions

Business Integrity Promotion

Engagement with Korean companies

Major part of our organization's engagement with local companies was conducting an online research or survey on the top 50 (international) Korean companies that are operating both locally and overseas. The survey/research aims to assess their respective anti-corruption programmes, organizational transparency and country-by-country reporting. Guided by a standard methodology set by Transparency International, the research/survey published the result with recommendations for all relevant stakeholders including the companies included in the project.

As a follow-up to the survey conducted and on the publication of the results, TI Korea organized an integrity forum especially for the company heads (or representatives) and other stakeholders. Presenters from companies and relevant institutions and organizations presented case studies and inputs to promote integrity among companies.

Climate Finance Governance Monitoring and Awareness-Raising

TI Korea has been monitoring the Green Climate Fund's (GCF) activities by joining its Board meetings (3-4 times/year) as an observer. The meetings usually run three official meetings and one informal meeting wherein GCF's accredited civil society organizations can join in. Prior to the Board meeting, civil society organizations have their preparatory meetings to discuss items for the formal Board meeting.

In addition, TI Korea performs awareness-raising to Korean people, civil society organizations and other relevant stakeholders through giving presentations, sending out newsletters and updates, organizing meetings and forum.
