The Independent Accountability Panel (IAP), a new panel of experts convened by the United Nations Secretary-General, recently released its first report, “Old Challenges, New Hopes,” an assessment of progress on the Global Strategy for Women's, Children's and Adolescents' Health 2016–2030. The report was also formally submitted to the United Nations Secretary-General at the Every Woman Every Child high level reception on 20th September 2016. The report places a special focus on equity and argues that urgent action is needed to meet global health commitments to women, children and adolescents through the Sustainable Development Goals.

Independent Accountability Panel conducted a survey regarding Comments & Feedback on the first IAP Report on Accountability for the Global Strategy for Women's, Children's & Adolescents' Health.

Participatory Human Rights Advancement Society was invited to participated the survey and give comments & feedback on first IAP Report on Accountability for the Global Strategy for Women's, Children's & Adolescents' Health.
