Inserting SDGs in Business Vision

Integrating Business within UN 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development

Embedding SDGs into Corporate Reporting

The UN 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development (2030 Agenda) has pushed our challenge as lawyers to make the difference between being involved and being committed.

The 2016 – 2020 phase is a decisive period in the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) context, representing a window onto a broader approach that cannot be missed.

Innovative approaches are needed, sharing the global voluntary common language of SDGs as an indivisible whole call for action, according to a process that both integrates the multiple dimensions of SDGs and uses the synergies across the 17 Goals and the 169 Targets.

The 4Ps – For People, Planet, Prosperity - perspective of the SDGs implies to put together i) the initial spark of creativity - profitability - new-form-of-creativity circle, ii) the idea of a new era of business as unusual, iii) the awareness of the need to go beyond the take - make - dispose linear economic model.

Focusing on the concepts of Heritage, Culture, Landscape, we aim to treasure lessons learnt with reference to Goals 1, 2, 3, 5, 9, 14 and build experience on Goals 6, 7, 11, 12, 15, towards 2019, the third set of Goals 4, 8, 10, 13, 16, what will come.

Raised within and according to our Pro Bono Program

Assessed considering

- i) the outcomes of Law for Creativity (L4C) Research;
- the analysis, developments and findings of 'Business Reporting on the SDGs', the collaborative initiative by GRI and UNGC

State of Play

In the fall of 2011, we launched Law for Creativity (L4C) Research aiming to conduct a comparative study of legal systems across different countries and regions - Italy; EU; USA; Japan; South America; Eurasia; Asia; Middle East; Far East; Africa - in order to identify the sets of rules which channel investment, innovation and competitiveness policies towards fostering creativity.

During our journey, we have met various challenges: the perimeter of CCIs, identified with the so-called F.A.M.E. (Fashion, Art, Music, Entertainment) sector; the apparent ambiguity between traditional economic indicators and elements essential to creativity; the consequent need to overcome the indexes commonly used; the preaching&practicing test.

Until the adoption of 2030 Agenda, our list of dos and don'ts was quite entirely absorbed in the don'ts.

The SDGs plan of action has made emerge the need to commence to harmonize findings with understanding of the problems and opportunities posed by current and future trends, both taking into account the present everyday development - through large-scale projects such as mines or dams, the cumulative impact of industrial expansion and smaller-scale projects such as housing and tourism developments, urban growth and projects of urban modernization - and considering that all the F.A.M.E. sector in some sense tells a dream facilitating our research.

The results of our War and Fashion Consultation - i) launched in the spring of 2015, ii) developed according to the Chatham House Rule, iii) centered around the role of Fashion sector as agent of change in contributing to peace and development, iv) opened to citizens (also as consumers), all economic actors across the product value chains, financial sector, NGOs, education, public administrations and institutions, v) resulted in the road map concluded in 2017, June - have represented the fil rouge along which the steps of the action have been highlighted.

Innovating

- -Putting together business, gratuitousness, and innovation;
- -Following the development of the evolution of the concepts of property, work, corporation, profit, money;
- -Overcoming the indexes commonly used and the related ambiguity.
