Dear Mr. Secretary General,

Kindly accept this as the communication of engagement (COE) for non-business organizations for Oshwal College Nairobi.

As a College we value the spirit promoted by the UNGC's ten principles and therefore, we have actively been engaging in activities aimed at promoting the understanding of the principles among our staff, students and the general public.

In future, we expect to increase the range of activities directly linked to the promotion of the UNGC's ten principles as well as those that strengthens our relationship with your agency.

Respectfully,

JAYASHREE PRATHAP (Mrs.)
Principal

Report on communication of engagement (COE) for Oshwal College

This COE covers the period from October 2018 - October 2019. As a tertiary institution of education our responsibilities are more inclined towards creation and dissemination of knowledge. We believe that effective and wide dissemination of knowledge creates an enlightened society and therefore, as a part of our commitment to the UN Global Compact we have endeavored to enlighten the Oshwal College fraternity and our external stakeholders about the UNGC's ten principles. This has been achieved through:

- Displaying prominently the UN Global Compact principles on our notice boards within the College.
- Covering the Ten principles in our College newsletter for internal and external circulation.
- The College has an active environmental club that undertakes environmental cleanups and awareness campaigns as well as tree planting exercises.

Our students, staff and stakeholders have greatly benefited from the awareness of the UNGC's principles and have embraced them as part of their culture and day-to-day operations.
