AASGON/GSEF Concerns

The gap between the 'North' and 'South' Despite very significant development gains globally which have raised many millions of people out of absolute poverty, there is substantial evidence that inequality between the world's richest and poorest countries is widening.

In 1820 western Europe's per capita income was three times bigger than Africa's but by 2000 it was thirteen times as big. In addition, in 2013, Oxfam reported that the richest 85 people in the world owned the same amount of wealth as the poorest half of the world's population. Today the world is much more complex than the Brandt Line depicts as many poorer countries have experienced significant economic and social development. However, inequality within countries has also been growing and some commentators now talk of a 'Global North' and a 'Global South' referring respectively to richer or poorer communities which are found both within and between countries. For example, whilst India is still home to the largest concentration of poor people in a single nation it also has a very sizable middle class and a very rich elite.

There are many causes for these inequalities including the availability of natural resources; different levels of health and education; the nature of a country's economy and its industrial sectors; international trading policies and access to markets; how countries are governed and international relationships between countries; conflict within and between countries; and a country's vulnerability to natural hazards and climate change.

1955 Asian African Conference

The Bandung conference, a meeting of Afro-Asian leaders, held in April 18–25, 1955, represented a landmark in the emergence of the third-world non-aligned movement, aimed to promote the political and diplomatic autonomy of less developed countries. India's first Prime minister Jawaharlal Nehru , Ghana's President Kwame Nkrumah , President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, President Sukarno of Indonesia and , President Marshal Josip Broz Tito of the erstwhile Yugoslavia were regarded as the architects of the "Non-aligned movement", termed by the Indian diplomat and statesman V K Krishna Menon in 1953.

In their commitment to the advancement of South-South Cooperation, Asian and African leaders led by China's President Xi Jinping, Indonesia's President Joko Widodo and Malaysia's Prime Minister Najib Razak walk during a reenactment of the historic walk from 1955 along Asia Africa Street, to mark the 60th Asian African Conference Commemoration in Bandung April 24, 2015.

New York, June 2017

António Guterres
Secretary-General of the United Nations

The Group of 77 (G-77)

The Group of 77 (G-77) was established on 15 June 1964 by seventy-seven developing countries signatories of the “Joint Declaration of the Seventy-Seven Developing Countries” issued at the end of the first session of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) in Geneva.

Beginning with the first “Ministerial Meeting of the Group of 77 in Algiers (Algeria) on 10 – 25 October 1967, which adopted the Charter of Algiers”, a permanent institutional structure gradually developed which led to the creation of Chapters of the Group of 77 with Liaison offices in Geneva (UNCTAD), Nairobi (UNEP), Paris (UNESCO), Rome (FAO/IFAD), Vienna (UNIDO), and the Group of 24 (G-24) in Washington, D.C. (IMF and World Bank). Although the members of the G-77 have increased to 134 countries, the original name was retained due to its historic significance.

The Group of 77 is the largest intergovernmental organization of developing countries in the United Nations, which provides the means for the countries of the South to articulate and promote their collective economic interests and enhance their joint negotiating capacity on all major international economic issues within the United Nations system, and promote South-South cooperation for development.

South-South

Cooperation

Ms. Amina Mohammed, Deputy Secretary – General of the United Nations stated, “South-South cooperation is one of world’s most important pathways to prosperity”.

Since the early 1990s, the idea of south-south cooperation has expanded rapidly. Today, its presence in the international development discourse is very strong. And South-South cooperation today expands beyond mere humanitarian assistance and goodwill endeavors. Trade and investment between countries in the South is huge. So is knowledge sharing and capacity building.

Recent statistics do show that south-south cooperation has revved up, but there is still a long way to go. Statistics also show that the 29 member countries of the OECD’s development assistance committee account for 90% of global development aid and have decades of experience behind them; and south-south cooperation is certainly not going to replace these figures soon.

For many, south-south cooperation is an ideological boost rather than something concrete in practice.

South-South Cooperation

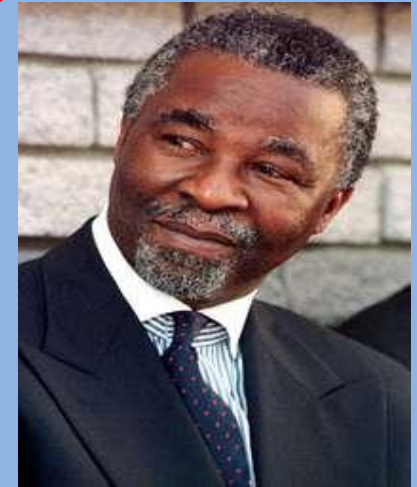

The history of the South-South cooperation started in 1949 with the establishment of the first UN technical aid programme by the Economic and Social Council and the creation of the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) in 1969.

South-South Cooperation is a term historically used by policymakers and academics to describe the exchange of resources, technology, and knowledge between developing countries, also known as countries of the Global South

The South Centre is the intergovernmental organization of developing countries that helps developing countries to combine their efforts and expertise to promote their common interests in the international arena.

The South Centre was established by an Intergovernmental Agreement which came into force on 31 July 1995. Its headquarter is in Geneva, Switzerland. Its predecessor, the South Commission, recognized the need to strengthen South-South cooperation in international affairs. In its report 'The Challenge to the South', the South Commission emphasized the need for countries of the South to work together at the global level.

Chair, H.E. Thabo M. Mbeki

Thus South Centre, an independent intergovernmental think-tank of developing countries, was created to analyze the development problems of the developing countries, encourage them to value and share their common experience and provide intellectual and policy support for them to act collectively and individually, particularly at the international level.

The South Centre undertakes research and analysis on various international policy areas that are relevant to the protection and promotion of its member states and helps the South to develop common points of view and to work together on major international development-related policy issues. Within the limits of its capacity and mandate, the South Centre also responds to requests for policy advice and for technical and other support from collective entities of the South such as the Group of 77 (G-77) and China and the Non-Aligned Movement (NAM).

Challenge on Governance!

“We are not doing enough to meet the fundamental challenges of our time: to end extreme poverty in this generation and significantly narrow the global gap between rich and poor”

- S.E. M. Vuk Jeremić,
President of the 67th Session of the United Nations General Assembly

Leaders should be more proactive

"In the 20 years since the first Rio Earth Summit, the world has largely failed to address some of the most serious environmental and social problems pressing in on us"

"We can't afford business as usual. We need to engage the academic and scientific community, and tap into worldwide technological know-how in the private sector and civil society, in order to develop and implement practical solutions"

- Professor Jeffrey D. Sachs head of SDSN and Special Advisor to the UN Secretary-General on global anti-poverty target and Director at Columbia University's Earth Institute.

Challenge on Governance!

“Current models for development are unsustainable
...the SDGs must represent a new development agenda that respects the physical constraints of the planet and can also lift
the poorest people out of poverty”.

-UN Open Working Group (OWG)
on Post MDGs

Change is imminent & must reflect!

Challenge on Governance!

“Sadly our media, both print and electronic, have yet to evolve the extensive skills needed to process the variety of information and outcomes from UN debates and conferences for public communication and consumption”.

- H.E. Mr. Macharia Kamau
Co-Chair UN Open Working Group (OWG).
Ambassador/Permanent Representative,

Information is key to Post MDGs!

AASGON/GSEF: Promoting Renewed global partnership, which according to the UN High Level Panel, is critical for post-2015 development agenda

- On March 27, 2013 in Bali, Indonesia, the UN Panel of eminent persons led by President Ellen Johnson, Sirleaf of Liberia, President Susilo Bambang Yudhoyono of Indonesia and Prime Minister David Cameron of the United Kingdom called for a partnership that enables:

- a transformative people-centred development agenda beyond 2015.

- a planet-sensitive development agenda which is realized through the equal partnership of all stakeholders.

Addressing Global Challenges requires a collective and concerted effort, involving all actors.

Through partnerships and alliances and by pooling comparative advantages, we increase our chances of success"

Crossing the Big Hurdle

My major frustration with many actors in this process is that they are focused on one thing, and forgetting the foundation. The Post 2015 and Sustainable Development Framework will have one central pillar-known as the Strategic Vision.

This will be the main document that will form the foundation of what we do. It is on the basis of this Strategic Vision that we will build the goals as an annex. There is a strong and disproportionate emphasis and demand for goals when we have not even built the foundation.

- Then we have another problem-we have forgotten that there are other central pillars that were non-existent in the MDGs, and which will contribute to their failure. The success of the Post 2015 agenda will not depend on the goals, but on the Frameworks - the Financing Mechanism, and the Monitoring through the High Level Political Forum.

No one seems to be paying adequate attention to these areas-yet without them the Post 2015 Framework will be even less successful than the MDGs.

- Ambassador Csaba Koros,
Co-Chair of the UN Open Working Group on Post 2015, speaking at the Session on the Role of Foundations and Civil Society in the Post 2015 Agenda

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS

17 GOALS TO TRANSFORM OUR WORLD

16 PEACE, JUSTICE AND STRONG INSTITUTIONS

The Sustainable Goals cover a broad range of issues, including poverty, hunger, health, education, climate change, gender equality, water, sanitation, energy, environment and social justice. Sustainable Development Goal 16 “Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions” calls for promoting peaceful and inclusive societies for sustainable development, providing access to justice for all and building effective, accountable and inclusive institutions at all levels.

A peaceful society is one where there is justice and equality for everyone. Peace will enable a sustainable environment to take shape and a sustainable environment will help promote peace.

Goal 16: Promote just, peaceful and inclusive societies

Goal 16 of the Sustainable Development Goals is dedicated to the promotion of peaceful and inclusive societies for sustainable development, the provision of access to justice for all, and building effective, accountable institutions at all levels, and bringing about lasting peace and prosperity.

North – South Divide

Renewed Global Partnership

- Framework for post 2015 MDGs

- To forge a New Global Partnership, a new spirit of solidarity, cooperation, and mutual accountability must underpin the post-2015 agenda.
- This new partnership, based on a common understanding of our shared humanity, mutual respect and benefit should be People Driven, Proactive, Evidence Based and Sustainable.
- It should be centred around people, particularly the vulnerable, those affected by poverty and exclusion, women, youth, the aged, disabled persons, and indigenous peoples.
- It should include civil society organizations, multilateral institutions, local and national governments, the scientific and academic community, businesses, and private philanthropy.

Dear Mr. Mohammed,

I was pleased to receive your letter regarding the formation of the 'Forum of Africa Arab Asia-Pacific University Presidents (FAAAPUP) and the 'Pride of Africa Arab and Asia-Pacific University Leadership' (PAAAPUL) Global Awards.

We really appreciate your endeavours to address the socio-economic challenges and to form a platform for development sustainability through the various programs, initiatives and partnerships.

I would like to inform you that the Association of Arab universities which has at present 300 member universities is pleased to endorse the 'Forum of Africa Arab Asia-Pacific University Presidents (FAAAPUP) and the 'Pride of Africa Arab and Asia-Pacific University Leadership' (PAAAPUL) Global Awards and will be willing to give our support to fulfil your objectives.

Wishing you all success in your mission.

Yours sincerely,

WRITES AASGON PRESIDENT

Dear Abdul Mohammed,

I very highly appreciate your great care for the development of the Association of Universities of Asia and the Pacific (AUAP) and your willingness of much involvement and dedication to it, I am sure, with your support and assistance, AUAP will definitely have a new look during my management in the next two years, even though it is too short.

I completely agree with you that the economy in Asia and Pacific, are at their turning point, every economy in this region, including China, will have to face a normal, but a relatively lower growth or down turning in the coming years, and AUAP should strive to play a leading role by providing the enabling platform for economic development and interregional cooperation.

I am very much interested in your ambitious proposal 'Resource, Innovation & Technology Centre for Sustainable Development (RITC4SD) - A $120m project. As you know, I always believe that government, international organization and entrepreneurs are three key partners for higher education to link.

During my two years term, I will of course try to lead AUAP to embark on this tripartite partnership with close cooperation with your institution AASGON. And, as you may find, our new strategy for 2015--2016 will focus on this direction too

When we talk about the poverty goal. Its really about the economy and the economy is much about the private sector. Dear Mr. Abdul Dewale Mohammed,

To further promote the development of Sino-South Africa bilateral investment and trade, and to explore new economic cooperation opportunities between China and South Africa, China Council for International Investment Promotion and Shanghai Foreign Investment Development Board will join hands with relevant agencies in South Africa to host the Sino-South Africa New Economic Cooperation Opportunities Forum in Sandton Convention Center in Johannesburg during 9:00-12:00 on July 21st, 2016.

Representatives of Chinese NGOs in South Africa, officers of relevant agencies of South African government and directors of China Council for International Investment Promotion and Shanghai Foreign Investment Development Board will give speeches on new economic cooperation opportunities between China and South Africa, investment environment in Shanghai, basic introduction of China (Shanghai) Pilot Free Trade Zone and relevant issues; Chinese enterprises that already conduct investment and trade business, or are interested in investing in South Africa, in manufacture, finance and e-commerce industries, will share their investment experience and business plans.

We sincerely invite you to attend this forum as our honorable guest to seize new opportunities from economic cooperation between China and South Africa, to exchange ideas, and to jointly promote investment and trade cooperation between enterprises in China and in South Africa. Your presence is cordially requested.

WEF - Davos 2018 Theme:

Creating a Shared Future in
..... a Fractured World

In his message to the WEF 2018 Summit, Pope Francis described the chosen theme as timely and trust that it will assist in guiding deliberations as leaders seek better foundations for building inclusive, just and supportive societies, capable of restoring dignity to those who live with great uncertainty and who are unable to dream of a better world.

The World Economic Forum (WEF) summit held in Davos, Switzerland in January 2018 with the theme 'Creating a Shared Future in a Fractured World' raised great concerns, particularly when considering the demoralising state of a number of countries particularly those of the Global South, in the drive to attain the 2030 UN Sustainable Development Goals (UNSDGs).

To do judgement to the worrisome theme, first time in history, the Forum had an all female Co-Chair team of Seven women leaders which included Christine Lagarde, IMF Managing Director, to lead the World leaders most exclusive meeting.

In finding lasting solution, promote excellence, good policies and practices, it thus become pertinent for GSEF and AASGON to seek the support of Government to host World Leaders and relevant stakeholders, to address our 'Fractured World in actualization of the 2030 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs)

2019...QUITE CHALLENGING FOR THE GLOBAL SOUTH

With the establishment of the 1st UN Technical aid programme by the Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC), the history of the South - South Cooperation (SSC) began in 1949...

With all the aforementioned in existence, it is quite saddening that rather than liberal democratic governance, shared prosperity and social equality in place within the Global South...

GSEF - The Global South Economic Forum's intervention and initiatives, the erudite professor describes, as timely and provides a platform to alleviate global support to bridge the burgeoning economic gulf...

The GSEF Founder and Executive Chairman, Abdul Dewile Mohammed, speaking at WUP Summit in Taiwan, China.

BAPA+40 - UNOSSC

On the occasion of the 40th anniversary of the adoption of the Buenos Aires Plan of Action for Promoting and Implementing Technical Cooperation among developing countries (TCDC), the Second High-Level UN Conference on South-South Cooperation will be held in Buenos Aires, Argentina...

AT LAST... 1ST AFRICAN SOUTH SOUTH COOPERATION REPORT

The first African South-South Cooperation (SSC) Report endorsed by the AU will be officially presented at the High-Level Meeting on SSC, the Buenos Aires Plan of Action (BAPA+40) in March 2019.

GLOBAL SOUTH ECONOMIC FORUM NEWSLETTER

7TH JANUARY 2019 https://gseforum.org

Can the UN be fit for Purpose?

Secretary-General António Guterres flanked by the Deputy Secretary-General Inma Maldonado and Minister Luján President 22nd Session of the UN General Assembly.

Eleven more years to come for the United Nations to present the score card, on the world's delivery of the 2030 Agenda - a promise for Dignity Prosperity and Peace on a Healthy Planet - the year 2019 will certainly decide and give justification as to the readiness of the UN management for effective and efficient services...

The UN is the cornerstone of multilateralism and the SDGs are the boldest framework put forward by the UN for advancing the well being of mankind. According to the GSEF Executive Chairman, who is also the Founder and Group Executive President of the Africa Asia Scholars Global Network (AASGN), without a concrete transformation and overhaul of the UN operative system, a complete change in Mind Set...

The speech of the UN Secretary-General to the General Assembly before assuming office in 2015, stated the GSEF Chairman, should always resonate in our minds and deeds. With the Global South being the worst hit with Africa mired in turmoil, the great divide between people and political establishments, continues to rise unabated.

"A culture of accountability requires strong performance management and effective protection for whistleblowers". - GSEF's - GSEF
