

GANT CEO STATEMENT OF COMMITMENT

April 2, 2020

At GANT, durability and longevity have been key factors in the design and production of our garments since 70 years. The opportunities to produce even more sustainable clothing has never been more apparent or more essential, both to our business and our planet.

We know that creating significant change requires collective action and cooperation. The challenges that the industry is facing are large and this is a never stop learning journey where joint efforts need to be taken to create massive impact. That is why I am proud of our commitments to a number of important initiatives and partnerships.

This year we have joined five new partnerships. One of them is becoming signatories of the UN Global Compact. We will continue to support this critical initiative and remain dedicated to support the 10 principles of the Global Compact with respect to human rights, labor, environment and anti-corruption. We look forward to the years ahead as the Global Compact's activities advance our company's sustainability commitment.

We have been in business for more than 70 years and look forward to the next 70. We believe the years ahead present great opportunities for those who take action instead of reversing into the future and we will continue to work for a more sustainable industry. As our founder Bernard Gantmacher said, "If you don't know where you're coming from, you don't know where you are going."

Sincerely,

Patrik Söderström
CEO
