Communication on engagement covering June 2018 and December 2020 from Special Pathogens Research Network Limited

This communication covers the stated 2 years and six months period from June 2018 to December 2020, a period which has been full of challenges and rising aggression by countries, regions, ethnics, religious groups and fanatics, and various individual quest for materialism. The principles of the United Nations Global Compact has guided our network in all its operations and activities and most importantly in maintaining our core principle of not-for-profit network in the midst of emerging complex personal needs and nefarious aggrandizements in our society today.

The Year 2020 brought the novel coronavirus pandemic that has turned the world upside down. On July 1, 2020, we launched a not for the profit group of 42 Special journals for sustainable development, we are now looking for funding to make the journals achieve its sustainability goal

The Supreme Research Council (SRC), the highest executive board of this network during its end of year annual general meeting for the year 2019, therefore resolved that it will henceforth continue to support the United Nations Global Compact (UNGC) and would therefore wish to renew the on- going commitment of the special pathogens research network limited. It also hopes to incorporate the principles of the UNGC into its long term strategic development goals.

We will continue to support human rights and ethics in all our research efforts. We also support UNGC approach to labor by working against all forms of discrimination in occupation and employment. We support UNGC approach to the environment by advocacy which is aimed at encouraging the society to embrace items that can be recycled and absolutely biodegradable.
