

13 November 2020

To our stakeholders:

The year 2019 was one marked by rapidly evolving global dynamics. Increased awareness on the impact of climate change and the need to take collective action encouraged many companies, including APRIL Group, to conduct its business in accordance with the principles of sustainability.

With this letter and submission of our 2019 Sustainability Report, I am pleased to confirm that PT Riau Andalan Pulp and Paper (RAPP), as the operating arm of APRIL Group in Indonesia, supports the Ten Principles of the United Nations Global Compact (UNGC) on human rights, labour, environment and anti-corruption. We are committed to incorporating the UNGC principles into our business operations.

We support public accountability and transparency, and therefore commit to report our company's progress and performance as documented in our Sustainability Report. This includes our continued improvement in operational efficiency, particularly our mill's energy and water use, and increasing the use of renewable fuel sources.

Our continuous improvement is key to maintaining our production facilities as among the most efficient and self-sufficient in the world. We look forward to working with our key stakeholders and reporting on our progress as we continue to evolve our sustainability vision.

Sincerely,

Sihol Parulian Arintonang
President Director
