

UN Global Compact: Communication on Progress 2020

May 2021

Overview

UN Global Compact: Communication on Progress 2020

This document is PwC's Communication on Progress (COP) for the UN Global Compact (UNGC). It outlines our plans, progress and achievements aligned with the UNGC's ten principles.

As in previous years, this document highlights the relevant links to our existing approach to corporate reporting. The relevant information can be found in our 2020 Global Annual Review, our global Corporate Responsibility \(CR\) website and individual PwC firm websites. To demonstrate our alignment with the principles we have provided links to examples of our policies, public commitments and specific initiatives, including work with clients.

The PwC brand is the brand under which the firms of PricewaterhouseCoopers International Limited (PwCIL) operate and provide professional services. Firms in our network have different priorities in relation to CR so our global CR strategy provides a common vision for leadership but allows for flexibility in the pace, prioritisation and localisation of activities. This document includes a number of case studies which highlight initiatives from PwC firms that demonstrate how the principles are implemented. We recognise that measuring outcomes is a critical component of the UNGC and will continue to strive to find ways to enhance our reporting process. This document is not designed to be an exhaustive list of all the ways in which our firms have aligned to the principles.

Human Rights and Labour

UNGC Human Rights and Labour Principles

Principle 1: Businesses should support and respect the protection of internationally proclaimed human rights; and

Principle 2: make sure that they are not complicit in human rights abuses.

Principle 3: Businesses should uphold the freedom of association and the effective recognition of the right to collective bargaining;

Principle 4: the elimination of all forms of forced and compulsory labour;

Principle 5: the effective abolition of child labour; and

Principle 6: the elimination of discrimination in respect of employment and occupation.

Key Area - Human Rights

PwC's Global Approach

As stated in our Global Code of Conduct, we respect and support fundamental human rights and we work to guard against complicity in human rights abuses.

Our Global Code of Conduct and local employment policies capture the essence of our approach to human rights and to building a culture of respect and inclusion – by clearly setting out the way we expect our people to do business.

The Global Human Rights Policy and Guidance establishes the principles by which all PwC firms, and all partners and staff, respect human rights throughout their business activities, and work to guard against complicity in human rights abuses, comply with applicable labour and employment laws, and draw on internationally recognised labour principles in how we do business. The Policy and Guidance build on the Global Code of Conduct, which sets out our commitment to respecting human rights, by providing more details on the requirements to which PwC firms must adhere. This policy forms part of the expectations set out in the network standards.

The Human Rights Policy and PwC's Global Human Rights statement further supports the commitment to the Global Code of Conduct and outlines the principles and commitments by which PwC firms respect human rights throughout their business activities. It embodies our understanding of the significance of human rights for a global professional services network

In addition, our values drive the way we behave with each other, our clients, and our communities. They are: act with integrity; make a difference; care; work together; and reimagine the possible.

Key Area - Labour

PwC's Global Approach

Child labour: We will only employ workers who meet the applicable minimum legal age requirements and comply with all other applicable child labour laws.

Forced labour: We will not use any involuntary labour of any kind, such as prison, bonded or forced labour.

Health, safety and hygiene: Our employees work in an environment that is both safe and healthy, in line with local firm health and safety policies, and in compliance with applicable laws and regulations regarding working conditions.

Freedom of association: We recognise that all of our people have the right to form and join organisations of their own choosing, subject to local laws and regulations, as long as this activity does not contravene the local firm's external appointments policy, which seeks to ensure our independence, in line with the regulatory requirements of our business.

Flexible Working and wellbeing: We recognise that people are most successful when they prioritise wellbeing and have the everyday flexibility they need to shape their experience and empower them to be their best both inside and outside of work.

Several of our firms have flexible working policies and practices in place. We have launched a network-wide flexible working leadership commitment and a wellbeing program with accountability measures for success

Development: The foundation of our leadership development experience is our global career progression framework, PwC Professional. This is a single set of expectations across our organisation that clearly identifies the attributes and behaviours our people need to solve important problems and realise new opportunities. Opportunities are at the heart of a career with us. Opportunities for our employees to grow as individuals, to build lasting relationships and make an impact in a place where people, quality and value mean everything.

This framework is underpinned by national and international training programmes, on the job training, mentoring and shadowing programmes. They have been designed to help our people achieve their full potential.

Enable our people to develop a digital mind-set - Our clients operate in a landscape that's becoming more and more disrupted by digital technology. To help them convert this disruption into opportunity, it's essential that we remain ahead of the digital curve, and in 2019 we launched New world. New Skills. committing US$3bn to upskilling. This will primarily be invested in training our people, and in technologies for supporting clients and communities. Our Digital Fitness solution was one of the tools used to keep our people, clients and communities on top of the latest digital innovations.

We also offer online learning tools and resources through a cloud-based innovation that delivers training on a wide range of topics to our over 284,000 people across the network. This platform enables all our people to customise their learning for both content and usage.

Engaging with our people: To create the most value for their businesses and communities, firms in our network consult with their stakeholders and their own people to help decide business priorities.

Key Area - Diversity and Inclusion

PwC's Global Approach

Diversity is a business priority for us and ties directly to our values. We're committed to cultivating an environment where our people feel a sense of belonging. This means we can bring our whole selves to work, we can lead and grow through diverse experiences, and we can make a difference.

Our global approach and strategy on Inclusion and Diversity has two consistent focus areas of Gender and Inclusive Leadership with a plus 1 which differs for each territory depending on their business / talent strategy or legislative requirements. This approach recognises, respects and enhances the strength of our diverse workforce and inclusive culture across our network.

Our global priorities and focus areas include tracking progress through predictive analytics to arrive at targets and create accountability, gender proportionality in promotions and experienced hires, conducting pay equity reviews, inclusive recruitment efforts for experienced hiring, representation of women in leadership programs and succession planning, increasing the level of awareness and addressing potential biases through continued education.

These focus areas support gender equality across all levels thereby building a healthy pyramid, enhancing women in leadership and creating an environment strengthened by our policies and initiatives. And leveraging that diversity to deliver the highest value for our people and our clients.

We are a signatory to the UN Women's Empowerment Principles

- As of March 2021 102,277 of our people had made their HeForShe commitment.
- We contributed to the first-ever Proven Solutions report to HeForShe and were recognised at the 2017 UN Women "HeForShe" anniversary event for having almost 50% female representation at the global senior leadership level within the network. The report covered the proven practices we have employed to drive gender parity on the Global Leadership Team.
- To enhance awareness and insights on "Unconscious bias" and its impact on decision making, we created Outsmarting Human Minds (OHM). A research-based learning module to showcase the science of how human minds work and shape the decisions we make in the workplace and in life. It applies insights from psychological science to help us improve the decisions we make in life and at work

The key highlights for FY20 (July 2019 - June 2020) from a Diversity & Inclusion perspective are-

- Our Global Chairman, Bob Moritz, created a Global Inclusion and Diversity Council composed of territory senior partners and other key influential leaders in order to elevate inclusion at the network level, advocate for policies, interventions, and accountability, and ultimately to accelerate our progress towards a workforce which mirrors the demographics of the societies in which we do business.

- PwC hosted a space in The Female Quotient's Lounge at World Economic Forum (WEF) in Davos, which included stories of our female technology leaders and wellbeing practices and tools; Bob Moritz and Sheryl Sandberg COO of Facebook held a live-streamed fireside chat on gender and mental health and a number of other PwC Leaders participated on panels regarding gender equality, wellbeing, and technology.

Environment

Environment Principles

Principle 7: Businesses should support a precautionary approach to environmental challenges.

Principle 8: Undertake initiatives to promote greater environmental responsibility.

Principle 9: Encourage the development and diffusion of environmentally friendly technologies.

Key Area - Our strategy policies and programmes

PwC's Global Approach

We are committed to understanding and reducing our environmental impact on the world - starting with our own footprint through to working with our clients and suppliers, and advocating for change.

Our global environment strategy is a key element of our broader corporate responsibility strategy. PwC firms are guided by the PwC Network Environmental Statement and are encouraged to align their environmental strategies with the global strategy, as well as take action on local issues.

In 2020, 21 of our largest territories (the Strategy Council representing nearly 90% of our global revenue) plus a number of our other PwC firms support our global environment ambition: to drive energy efficiency, go 100% renewable and offset air travel.

In September 2020 PwC announced its worldwide science-based commitment to reach net zero greenhouse gas emissions by 2030. PwC's 2022 UNGC COP, which will focus on the period 1 July 2020 - 30th June 2021, will feature our net zero commitment in detail.

Outlined below is an overview of our approach:

- Driving efficiencies: The first step of our ambition is to drive efforts to reduce our absolute carbon impact. PwC firms are achieving this by choosing to house their offices in more efficient buildings, implementing energy efficiency measures, going circular and choosing more sustainable car fleets.

- Going 100% renewable: For the energy we do consume, we have committed to go renewable. Our aim is to do this by transitioning our largest firms first, with a slightly longer ramp-up for smaller offices. As part of this commitment we are a proud member of RE100 - a group of influential businesses committed to 100% renewable energy.
- Offsetting air travel emissions: While our priority is to reduce our absolute carbon impact, we have decided to purchase carbon offsets to mitigate the impact of emissions from air travel. Our carbon offset purchase is underpinned by a strict quality criteria and aims to drive multiple co-benefits beyond emissions reductions. Co-benefits refers to additional social, economic and environmental value created by these projects.

Territories that are farther along on their sustainability journey are assessing their climate change risks, investing in sustainable aviation, adopting circular principles, responsible technology and supply chain impacts.

- Measuring stakeholder capitalism - PwC worked with the World Economic Forum (WEF) International Business Council (IBC) to develop a common set of standards that will set a new benchmark for what responsible businesses disclose about their impact on the world. PwC led the 'Planet' pillar of the work, which has been conducted in collaboration with a range of stakeholders.

In a year where every part of our business was affected by the COVID-19 pandemic, with almost our entire workforce working from home at various stages throughout the year, and both domestic and international travel being restricted, we saw reductions across our Scope 1, 2 and 3 emissions. For the full breakdown of our emissions for FY20 please see our Global Annual Review.

- Driving efficiencies: While our network continues to grow, our absolute carbon emissions decreased by 28%. This was largely due to our people working from home and air travel restrictions.
- Going 100% renewable: In FY20, 71% of electricity consumption from Strategy Council firms was from renewable sources, an increase from 65% in FY19.
- Offsetting air travel emissions: In FY20, the Strategy Council firms offset 100% of their air travel. The projects we are supporting, in collaboration with other organisations, have collectively impacted over 4.3 million people, protected or restored 539,000 hectares of forest, generated 77,756 MWh of clean energy and created over 1,820 new full time jobs. Environmental policies:

- Australia

- Canada
- China and Hong Kong
- UK

Driving efficiencies:

- PwC UK in FY20 surpassed their 2022 target of a 40% reduction in total carbon emissions, two years early, even before the impact of the pandemic, which led to a 60% total reduction.
- In the US - Almost two-thirds of office space is certified through the LEED® green building program. In addition, GHG emissions from offices have fallen by 50% per FTE compared to FY15 levels.
- The Netherlands team - have committed to be fully circular by 2030 including through their supply chain. In the past financial year, 28% of their purchases were circular, up from less than 19% the previous year.

Going renewable: 71% of electricity from our Strategy Council territories in FY20 was from renewable sources with PwC US, China, Canada, Singapore, Sweden, Germany and Spain sourcing over 95% of their electricity from renewable sources. Many PwC firms have long been strong performers at a national level in managing their carbon impact. For example, PwC UK has installed two trigenerators that use carbon neutral biofuels from recycled cooking oil to generate part of its energy requirements onsite.

PwC's Global Approach

Another impact we can have is through supporting our clients to improve their environmental outcomes and working with our stakeholders to find new innovative solutions to environmental challenges in our areas of expertise. A few areas we have focused on this year have been the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), climate change, sustainable cities and circular economy.

We want our people to consider environmental opportunities in their work every day, and we support them with our global network of sustainability & climate change subject matter specialists.

Anti-corruption

Anti-corruption Principles

Principle 10: Businesses should work against corruption in all its forms, including extortion and bribery

Key Area - Anti-corruption overview

PwC's Global Approach

Strategic partnerships – We work extensively with numerous international agencies and national governments (e.g. UN, Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), World Bank, International Monetary Fund (IMF), European Commission, the Commonwealth Secretariat, the World Economic Forum Partnering Against Corruption Initiative (PACI), Transparency International, etc.) to:

- Build capacity of countries to detect and reduce corruption - for example undertaking forensic audits and investigations, conduct training initiatives regarding anti-money laundering (AML), corruption and other key initiatives
- Enhance implementation of AML regulations, and procedures for the recovery of stolen assets
- Extend work on tax reform, illicit financial flows (IFFs), procurement reform, and preventing corrupt companies from winning public contracts.
- We strive to maintain high professional standards at PwC and have set expectations for consistent ethical behaviour by all PwC firms across our global network.

Our Standards and internal quality control measures at territory and network level–

- Compliance with, and as appropriate, voluntarily adopting national and international initiatives and guidance to prevent corruption.
- Established network standards, policies, guidance and procedures which require compliance by PwC firms. Such standards and policies include our Global Code of Conduct and the Global Tax Code of Conduct - principles-based guidance to help our personnel 'do the right thing', as well as detailed policies and guidance supporting the code(s).
- Established and continuously promote expectations of the third parties PwC works with through implementation of our Global Third Party Code of Conduct, which reflects the ten principles that are the foundation of the UN.
- Established roles of global and territory subject-matter-specialists specifically in the area of anti-corruption and AML who work together to enhance processes such as approach and guidance when conducting anti-corruption risk assessments, share best practices, and develop training content that raises awareness and addresses current topics.

- Monitor compliance with our Network Standards on AML and anti-corruption, which require each PwC firm to appoint a partner responsible for its implementation and monitoring of performance against its requirements.
- Require all partners and staff to complete annual and new hire training that includes requirements, procedures and processes in key areas, including ethics, anti-corruption and AML.
- 'Know Your Client' (KYC) processes in place to identify and verify clients including obligations to report suspicious transactions where required in national legislation.
- Require annual territory and network monitoring and remediation of the implementation and effective execution of key compliance standards including the KYC, AML, and anti-corruption standards.
- Require all personnel to sign a personal annual compliance confirmation across key compliance areas including anti-corruption, AML, ethics and codes of conduct.
- Developed and rolled out compliance guidance and FAQs on PwC's approach to Anti-Corruption and PwC's approach to AML across the network, to align procedures and responses to clients.
- Updated Network Risk Management Policy (NRMP) on Anti-Corruption to simplify requirements and make for easier adoption by member firms.
- Developed and rolled out policies, guidance and related training (network wide) regarding the International Ethics Standards Board for Accountants (IESBA) - Non-compliance with Laws and Regulations standard (NOCLAR).

Appendix I – PwC Global Security

The information below is accessible to all staff through internal systems.

We consider the safety and wellbeing of our people to be paramount, and view security as an integral – and integrated – part of every facet of our network's business.

Proactive risk analysis and security operations

Amid a challenging environment- with threats ranging from health and disease, and terrorism, to climate change and environmental damage-any effort at safeguarding our people begins with identifying and assessing such threats even before they materialise. Consequently, our Global Security team work with both internal and external sources to keep a cautious eye on world events, and proactively works to develop the strategies and programmes-formally documented in our Network Standards-that can help our partners and staff steer clear of, or mitigate, the risks when they appear.

A key example is travel security for our people. Global Security, and the other security professionals in our network of PwC firms, go above and beyond the basics of 'duty of care' by emphasising pre-travel advice; providing briefings; issuing travellers pre-emptive event notifications as necessary; tracking travel to enable real time contact with our people as needed; and working to ensure employees are aware of the 24/7 medical and security assistance that is available to them through our arrangements with leading providers for such services. Additionally, every traveller has access to both web-based travel security information and a mobile app that delivers information and services to their mobile devices, as well as online e-learning to help them be better prepared prior to business travel. Global Security devotes considerable resources to supporting our people working in higher risk locations, enabling them to meet their obligations to clients through the application of carefully considered security protocols and risk mitigation procedures. In addition to these operational, day-to-day activities, Global Security produces regular longer term assessments on key issues and trends, helping to give our network leadership a holistic view of the global threat and risk environment.

Incident management and business continuity

Regardless of the emphasis on prevention, there will always be unforeseen events that require careful response and management. Global Security works with internal stakeholders to continuously develop incident management protocols and capabilities to enable the network to deal with a wide range of possible incidents. PwC firms have developed similar approaches, tailored to their individual circumstances. Additionally, Global Security supports the ongoing development of our Security Operation Centre, which provides 24/7 assistance to our business travellers as well as support to PwC firms incident management procedures. Furthermore, PwC firms are stepping up efforts to further refine their existing business continuity plans in order to minimise the impact future incidents may have on operations.

Intégration

Security works best when it is involved early and often in almost every aspect of the business, and security solutions are the most effective (and generally more cost effective) when developed in tandem with the full range of stakeholders to a given issue. In this regard, Global Security works closely with colleagues in functional areas across the network, as well as with client engagement teams. In addition, Global Security chairs our Security Group, consisting of the full-time security professionals across our network, to share best practices, leverage experience, and ensure consistency of approach to issues of risk and security. To better serve PwC firms across the network-in 155 countries - Global Security continues to build a regional security architecture, including supporting a network of Territory Security Leads-a security contact within every PwC firm. By continuing to strive to have security professionals placed in key strategic areas, this allows them to be closer to the people they serve and do so with greater speed and efficiency.
