WORKSHOP REPORT

Youths Enterprise Development & Innovation Society (YEDIS) is a nonprofit organization that builds entrepreneurial attitudes among young ones. We have been putting smiles on people's faces for the past few years by conducting free training, business development services, financial supports, mentoring, networking, and regular entrepreneurial orientations for the youths.

The organization is an active member of the United Nations Global Compact and a member of CIVICUS. Our organization contributes to the UNs Sustainable Development Goals 2030 to eradicate poverty, gender equality, and industrialization.

The world suffers from the Covid19 pandemic since 2020, and it has crippled most businesses worldwide. With the effect of COVID19, most companies have gone digital because of the reduction in physical contact. This development has made the virtual/online approach very significant.

Amidst the Covid-19 pandemic, and to cushion its effect, today, 10th of July 2021, we organized a free workshop on Digital fashion designing and distributed tailoring tools (Scissors, Tape rule, and few mini accessories) to 150 girls tailoring learners in Osogbo, Osun State, Nigeria.

Within its limited capability, the organization made the above little gesture; thus, we will continue to provide better services as long as we get support from the individual, public, corporate organization, and the Government.

The purpose of NGOs is to support the community. The Government cannot provide every need of the society, so the NGO will fill some gaps to give a better life for underprivileged people and disadvantaged communities.

Concerning our significant impacts, 1000 notebooks were distributed in 2020 by YEDIS to the 200 pupils in Nawardeen primary school, Ikirun, Osun State, Nigeria, to celebrate World Literacy Day. Free cash gifts to five "Youth in Business," free business plans development, creative ideas seminars, and many other youth empowerment programs carried out successfully.

The organization's success is being made possible through the voluntary financial and moral contributions of some YEDIS members, friends, family, and other stakeholders. The organization's sustainability also rests with online tools grants from google.org, microsoft.com, and other corporate organizations.

We record a significant increment in membership registration, and as of today, our membership is more than one thousand across the globe, with more than 75% from Nigeria.

We appreciate the YEDIS project and the technical team lead by Entrepreneurship Education professionals Mr. Ranti Ogunrinade and Mr. Ola Timothy Olalekan for their selfless and unrelenting services. More so, the effort of YEDIS members, tertiary education students' wing coordinators are also commendable.

Thank you all.
