 - 3.ISO 45001:2018 Occupational Health and Safety
 - 4.ISO 27001:2013 Information Security
 - 5.ISO 56002:2019 Innovation Management

Providing quality wellbeing services to any individual or community is of utmost priority. We make determined steps towards delivering services that are known for their high quality. We aim to continually improve that quality through maintaining a Quality Management System in line with the requirements stated by the standards referenced above.

The Quality Policy is based on the following guidelines and principles:

1. To support patients, communities and interested parties in enhancing their health and wellness status through the offering of health-related services
2. Develop and provide services that are trusted and preferred by our interested parties
3. Follow technological advances and international good practices in the delivery of care
4. Comply with laws and regulations set by the local Ministry of Health
5. Constant training of staff members to ensure a high level of expertise in terms of their scientific expertise as well as knowledge regarding quality, health and work safety
6. Maintenance and continual improvement of our quality systems, operational procedures and offered services to follow international standards, best practices and literature that are relevant to the field of activity of Curis Network.

All members of the organisation are actively involved in activities and procedures that are set out by the Quality Management System. Curis Network Quality Policy is communicated with all members and stakeholders of the organisation. The Policy is available on curis.health website

During the past year

the following actions were made towards protecting Human Rights

- Curis Network has been accredited with ISO 27001:2013 Information Security. To continually improve our security standards, we have been accredited with ISO 27001:2013 for Information Security. This standard allows Organization to establish, implement, maintain, and continually improve our information security management system. Accreditation with ISO 27001:2013 preserves the confidentiality, integrity, and availability of information. Risk identification and management process allow Organization to minimize exposure to risk giving confidence to interested parties that risks are adequately managed.
- Curis Network has been accredited with ISO 56002:2019 Innovation Management. Our vision to be a premier, diverse healthcare group, recognized for its innovation and transparency, valuable to all stakeholders has led us to be accredited with ISO 56002:2019 for Innovation Management. Our ability to innovate enables us to offer our clients products and services that meet their evolving needs supporting sustained growth, economic viability, increased wellbeing, and the development of society. Innovation increases our ability to respond to changing conditions, to pursue new opportunities and manage the process needed to achieve the intended outcomes.

- Curis Data Protection Officer has been certified by TÜV Austria Hellas.
- To protect health and safety of Curis Network staff members and interested parties, ensuring business continuity during the pandemic outbreak, we have created Covid-19 Policy for Health and Safety at Work as an addendum to our Health and Safety Policy. The purpose of this Policy is to provide guidance during the Covid-19 pandemic and to outline additional measures implemented to contain the spread of the disease within the workplace.
- We joined the European Network for Workplace Health Promotion, that aims to promote the development of workplace health in Europe.
- Conducted the annual Customer Satisfaction Survey.
- Conducted the annual Suppliers and Subcontractors Evaluation.
- Conducted a GDPR Compliance Internal Audit.
- Conducted Third-party Due Diligence to our suppliers, associates and providers to ensure that they comply with our requirements for the protection and promotion of human rights.
- Employees have been trained on:
 1. “ESG: A focus on Each Initial”.
 2. “CSRD: A Step Changing in Corporate Reporting”.
 3. “Demystifying ESG Reporting”.
 4. “Legal Obligations Under the new CSRD & EU Road Map on Corporate Compliance”.
 5. “Communicating Sustainability Actions”.
 6. “Happiness at Work”.

- During the pandemic, we ensured that all employees were trained and supplied with adequate protective equipment to safely perform their duties. Specific training was given on issues like hygiene and protective measures against Sars-Cov-2 virus. We collaborated with the national authorities and immediately complied with guidelines to prevent spread of disease among our employees.
- Curis upgraded its Internal Operations Manual (IoM) to implement additional procedures, policies and control systems. The IoM contains policies, procedures and guidelines regarding all operations, so that, on the best effort basis, no omissions and ambiguities exist as to the services rendered and the professional conduct towards all Network's stakeholders.

As part of Workplace Wellbeing, employees are advised on any relevant Occupational Health and Safety issues. Staff members are actively involved in identifying any hazards and investigating any incidents.

Employees participate in the development and review of the Occupational Health and Safety policies and objectives and the organization ensures that all employees are aware of the Occupational Health and Safety representative. We plan our operations from a safety perspective ensuring that operations are performed under the appropriate controls.

As part of this planning, documented procedures have been implemented for determining and managing risks in regards to existing or planned workplaces, processes, installations, machinery, workflows, working materials that are used, and for procuring goods, equipment and services. Incidents, accidents, near-misses, accident-related downtimes, work-related injuries, illnesses and adverse events of health are recorded and analysed, and corrective measures are taken.

The causes of such incidents are analysed to identify opportunities for both continuous improvement and preventive actions. The results are communicated within the organization, which has defined responsibilities and authorities for dealing with nonconformities, initiating corrective and preventive actions and taking actions to mitigate Occupational Health and Safety consequences.
