International year of Non-violence - Gandhi Jayanti celebration

In commemoration of the International Day of Non-Violence, which coincides with the birth anniversary of Mahatma Gandhi, The Adrian Loyal School in Karur, Tamil Nadu, organized a series of activities to promote peace and harmony among its students.

The event was supported by the National UN Volunteers-India, further emphasizing the global significance of non-violence.

The school grounds were filled with enthusiasm as students from various grade levels participated in a variety of creative activities. The event aimed to inspire the young minds to embrace non-violence as a means of resolving conflicts and fostering a peaceful society.

Students showcased their artistic talents through activities such as portrait making, collage making, and drawing. The participants skillfully expressed their interpretations of non-violence and Gandhi's principles through their artwork. Additionally, a makeup corner allowed students to experiment with face painting, symbolizing their commitment to non-violence.

One of the highlights of the event was the Khadi Chakra making activity, where students learned about the significance of the spinning wheel (charkha) and its association with Gandhi's advocacy for self-reliance and the use of locally made goods. The students enthusiastically participated in this activity, showcasing their craftsmanship and creativity.

Furthermore, a handcraft section was set up, encouraging students to engage in the art of creating handicrafts. This activity promoted the values of patience, perseverance, and resourcefulness, reflecting the essence of non-violence.

The event received accolades from the school's principal, Ms. N. Kavitha, who commended the teachers and students for their active participation and commitment to spreading the message of non-violence. Ms. Kavitha expressed her pride in the students' artistic talents and their dedication to promoting peace within the school and the wider community.

The school correspondent, Ms. Janet Raghupati, delivered an inspiring speech, encouraging and motivating the participants. She emphasized the importance of non-violence in today's world and encouraged the students to apply Gandhi's principles of peace, tolerance, and compassion in their everyday lives.

The celebrations at The Adrian Loyal School successfully showcased the students' creativity and their understanding of the significance of non-violence. By organizing such events, the school played a vital role in nurturing a generation committed to building a harmonious and non-violent society.
