School and PU College

witnessed an insightful address by Lieutenant Commander Jayanth Subbaiah, Deputy Base Victualling Officer at Base Victualling Yard, Karwar. The event, organized by the Student UN Volunteers-India team, aimed to provide students with valuable insights into joining the defense forces as officers and instilling a sense of patriotism among them.

Lt. Commander Jayanth emphasized the importance of serving the nation and highlighted the various opportunities available for students aspiring to join the defense forces as officers. He shared valuable information about the recruitment process, educational qualifications, and the qualities required to become a successful officer. Additionally, he passionately suggested ways and means for the students to channel their aspirations towards a career in the defense forces, emphasizing the significance of education, discipline, and leadership skills.

An essential aspect of Lt. Commander Jayanth's address was the call for students to become agents of change and to view a career in the defense forces as an opportunity to contribute positively to society. He urged the students to develop a sense of responsibility and leadership that extends beyond the uniform.

The event was appreciated by Principal Dr. M Ramachandran, vice principal, and the academic coordinator of the school, who commended the efforts of the organizers in providing valuable guidance to the students.

Lt. Commander Jayanth's address resonated with patriotic fervor as he instilled a deep sense of pride and love for the nation among the students, fostering a spirit of commitment and dedication.

The Career Guidance Program at Coorg Public School and PU College proved to be an enriching experience for the students, providing them with valuable insights and inspiration for their future careers.

Lieutenant Commander JAYANTH SUBBIAH
