LIVE: Rocky mountain spotted fever – Approach from the perspective of unified health - 06.10.2023

Lecture by the Prof.Dr. Kaoru Iokibe at the Fujita-Ninomiya Chair – 06.09.2023

Summary: Despite prewar modernization and imperialism and postwar economic growth, Japanese diplomacy has long suffered from a sense of victimization. The sentiment derives from “Unequal Treaties” thrust upon Japan in the mid-nineteenth century. Japanese citizens relived the experience with the US-Japan Security Treaty after World War II, as incidents arose between Japanese citizens and American soldiers in Japan. This lecture examines little known tactics used by Japanese officials to restore some sovereignty under both the “Unequal Treaties” Washington System and Japan – US Security Treaty. It provided an opportunity to strengthen partnerships among institutions.

Prof. Emi Imai
Coordenadora
Idealizadora do Projeto

This project started on March 12, 2021. Throughout the first semester of 2021 (from March 12, 2021, to June 25, 2021), sessions were held on Fridays from 11:00 AM to 12:00 PM or 1:00 PM to 2:00 PM, depending on the availability of professionals' schedules, with the participation of 47 students. It aimed to impart new knowledge to students about arts, sports, concepts, and education related to Japanese culture. Another important aspect of this project's objective was to explore and motivate students about Japanese cultural arts and education, seeking well-being and harmony within their colleagues and families at home. This was particularly pertinent due to the challenges faced by Brazilian families since the onset of the pandemic in 2020, including concerns about COVID-19 contamination, unemployment, anxiety, and depression.

The workshops of Discovering Japan Project, held in both the first and second semesters of 2021, not only brought joy and aided in the students' recovery during the pandemic but also instilled discipline, concentration, and the concepts of 'omoiyari' (Omoiyari" is a Japanese term that can be translated as "empathy" or "consideration for others) and 'omotenashi' (Omotenashi" is a Japanese concept that encompasses hospitality, involves attention to detail, sincerity, and a desire to exceed expectations, aiming to provide the highest level of service).

Additionally, they emphasized sustainability and the concept of 'mottainai', teaching not to waste resources such as water and electricity, while also helping students understand what it means to be dignified and honest.
