Dear Mr. Secretary General.

It is with great pleasure that I guarantee the Fundación de Antropología Forense de Guatemala (FAFG) supports the ten guiding principles of the UN Global Compact within human rights, labor, environment, and anti-corruption. To the end of advancing these principles, we express our intent to partner and support the UN Global Compact, which we will publicize to our stakeholders and general public.

We pledge to participate and partner with the UN Global Compact through engagement with other Global Compact Civil Society Organizations and business members nationally and internationally, support unique initiatives in line with the ten principles, and participate and contribute to local and global events. We will refer to Global Compact guides, tools, and good practices to ensure we are steadily evaluating and advancing our support for the ten principles in the workplace and beyond. Not only does the FAFG investigate gross human rights violation, but we actively seek to promote and consider our impact to supporting human rights for the FAFG team and extend respect for human rights for all to receive.

We, the FAFG, recognize the commitment of participation in the Global Compact and will respect and comply by submitting a Communication on Engagement (COE) that outlines our dedication to the implementation of the ten principles and participation with the UN Global Compact. We commit to submitting a report on progress and advancement to the ten principles within two years of joining the UN Global Compact, and continue to report every two years according to the Global Compact COE policy.

We, the FAFG, promise to dedicate ourselves to promoting and supporting Human Rights, and respect labor and environmental rights along with promoting anti-corruption.

Sincerely yours,

Fredy Peccerelli
Executive Director
