Dear Mr. Secretary-General:

I am pleased to let you know that The Clorox Company supports the ten principles of the UN Global Compact with respect to human rights, labor, environment and anti-corruption. Through our corporate responsibility strategy and 2020 goals, we intend to advance those principles.

We look forward to becoming an active member of the UN Global Compact and to engaging in projects that are relevant for our business and support the broader development goals of the organization, particularly the Sustainable Development Goals.

The company's 2015 integrated report, Good Growth, highlights our progress against our corporate responsibility strategy, which embodies the principles of the UN Global Compact. Our mission is to make everyday life better, every day, in large part through the more than one billion products we market around the world. Consistent with UN Global Compact's Principle 7 (the precautionary approach), Clorox seeks to comply with or exceed all applicable laws, regulations and approval standards with respect to our products as they relate to human and environmental safety. Through our Ingredients Inside program, Clorox was the first major consumer packaged goods company to voluntarily disclose the ingredients in our cleaning and disinfecting products in the U.S. and Canada.

We recognize that a requirement for participation in the UN Global Compact is the annual submission of a Communication on Progress (COP) that describes our efforts to support the ten principles, and we will be able to address this in future reports, through our integrated annual reports, starting in 2016. We were the first consumer packaged goods company to issue an integrated annual report, and we will use the Global Reporting Initiative's G4 Sustainability Guidelines as well as principles from the International Integrated Reporting Council to inform our 2016 report.

Thank you and we look forward to being a part of the UN Global Compact.

Sincerely,

Benno Dorer
Chief Executive Officer
